Client situation

GPSSA, which stands for General Pension and Social Security Authority, is a vital but routine government sector. In order to complete its tasks in a professional and modern manner, we decided to create a dashboard UI design that alleviates work pressure on employees and citizens as well.

The challenge

The most difficult challenge is that it is a massive government sector on which retirees rely every month, as it is extremely important to us as a society! To cut through government red tape and enter the world of digitization, a smart and professional plan was required. We have kept the recognized government divisions and made them faster so that the employee can complete his work with ease and speed and then move on to other tasks.

The solution

We thoroughly researched the field to determine its requirements, and we interviewed GPSSA employees and retirees to solve their respective problems in this large design. We devised a strategy, and the end result is visible.
